Do you love American food? Let's get the Brits to love it, too!

Project Title	Do you love American food? Let's get the Brits to love it, too!
Project Summary	Use your social media skills to share great stories about US food and agriculture with the British. Help the Foreign Agricultural Service in London expand its social media presence through Twitter. Be creative, research, and write! Learn what it's like to work during a historical time in the UK.
Country	UK

Project Description

By helping the FAS London office expand its media presence, you will learn more about US food and agriculture. We want you to help us share positive stories with the UK public with the aim of educating them about how diverse our food is and how our farmers are so connected to their land and animals. With Brexit and FTA negotiations at this time, we have a lot of interesting projects on the horizon. You will help us research and write about UK agricultural trade and policy related topics.
